Doctor Griggs,

Confident that his remedy is superior to all others that have ever been in practice, thinks it his duty to make it known to the public, that he has succeeded in effectually curing near one hundred persons in this city, of that most dreadful of all maladies, the CANCER, within the last two years; many of whom had despaired of ever obtaining a cure; of some whom had been attended in the Alms House and Hospital of this place, without success, and now are effectually cured.

By the afflicted's humble servant,

Daniel Griggs.

The following valuable property, viz.

36 ACRES of ground on Coal hill below the mouth of Sawmill run. From this ground there is a beautiful view of the city.

243 acres on the left bank of the Ohio river, sixteen miles down from the city. On this tract there is about fifty acres of bottom on the river, cleared and wrought by a tenant. The rest is timber land, nearly all capable of being cleared and wrought, and suitable for pasture ground

200 acres of very rich unimproved land, within eight miles of Meadville.

An undivided fourth part of about seven hundred acres in the state of Kentucky. This is very valuable, being the seat of the town of Greensburg; the county town of Green county, and situate on the bank of Green river; which is navigable from many miles above the town to the Ohio.

FOR SALE.

That very Valuable Real Estate called

HAMILTON HALL.

THE subscriber, wishing to remove from the country to a town, offers for sale, his beautiful FARM, on which he now resides, ten miles from the city of Pittsburgh, on the southwest bank of the Monongahela river, and two miles from M'Keesport, on the confluence of the Youghioghany and Monongahela rivers, and nearly opposite the mouth of Turtle creek.

This tract consists of about 275 acres of choice land, of which there is nearly 140 acres of first rate river and run bottom—the remainder is excellent tillable upland—there is about 90 acres of river bottom land cleared, which will produce as good corn and grass crops as any in the western country. In point of beauty, as well as excellent quality, this farm is excelled by none. The dwelling house is spacious, 72 feet in length, and one and a half story high, very neat and handsomely finished; a large barn with stables underneath, besides a horse stable, and other out houses, two tenant houses, and an excellent new Saw-mill, with a fall of 22 feet, and a stream of water sufficient for the purpose, for nearly nine months in the year. The same seat will admit of a grist or other mills also. There are several excellent springs for distilling; a handsome garden, stocked with all kinds of shrubbery; a young thriving Orchard, of the best fruit, and more than 3000 sugar trees on said farm.

If desired, there will be sold with the estate 100 full blooded, three fourths, and half blooded MERINO SHEEP, of superior quality and beauty, besides horses, cows, &c. and all kinds of farming utensils. The proximity to Pittsburgh and its excellent market, which unquestionably is the best in the Union, and the convenience as well by land as by water, makes it one of the most desirable and valuable estates in the western country; not only the bottoms but a considerable part of the upland, is excellently calculated for meadow. A full description is deemed unnecessary, as it is presumed the property will not be purchased without viewing it; however, it is calculated the estate will clear from 2500 to $3000 per annum, if well attended to. It is clear of all incumbrance, and an indisputable title will be given.

Besides the above, the subscriber will sell three excellent tracts of BOTTOM LAND, situate about five miles from Harmony, and nine miles from Beaver, 25 miles from Pittsburgh, on the Conequenessing. This land is of the very best quality for meadow or corn; each tract has an improvement upon it; one a saw mill; and another, a good dwelliug house, barn, &c.

FROM LONDON PAPERS.

Leghorn, Sept. 29.—The brig St, Sebastian has arrived here from Algiers. The master, Sollari Antonio, of Porto-Fino, relates, that at his departure the fortifications of Algiers were fast rising from their ruins; that works for effaceing all traces of the bombardment on the town were carried on with the greatest activity; and that in a short time the effects of the late attack will be no longer perceptible. The Dey has not yet done cutting off the heads of those whom he suspected of betraying him. This vengeance had already reached a great number of victims, and these executions appeared agreeable to the people. The Dey employed the soldiers in working on the fortifications.—He has promised the inhabitants that he will make the soldiers rebuild their houses.

The officers who signalized themselves in the battle, enjoy his entire confidence. Before the departure of the English fleet he addressed a proclamation to his army, which has been published in the Mosquez. Surrounded by the officers of his army, and placed on the bastion which was most damaged, the Dey said to the people—

"We are not conquered. The enemy have attacked us with arms with which we are not acquainted, and which are properly their own. They have seduced cowards by their promises and their gold. But what African would have riches which are not the fruits of his courage? We sign Peace, but we sign it with glory; and if the enemy celebrate this day as having conquered us, we shall in our turn celebrate it as one of those in which we have done most injury to the enemy.

"Soldiers, and you, nation of heroes, never forget your fathers. They live—they will live for ever, and will be honoured among people of other shores. These people cease to exist in dying, and have only a fleeting power. In dying yours is extinguished, but it rapidly revives. Recompences shall be given, not to courage, for that is your native virtue, but to those who have suffered most by the bombardment."

The Dey delivered this harangue while the English squadron was still in sight, and the people replied to him with cries of approbation. They followed the Dey kissing his robes. Since the departure of the squadron he has always appeared in an undress and armed, He attends to the repairs of the fortifications and encourages the workmen.

State of Algiers.—On Wednesday the Prometheus, Captain Dashwood, arrived at Portsmouth from Algiers. She stayed at Algiers 17 days after Lord Exmouth had sailed; she left it on the 20th Sept. The officers frepuently went on shore, and were not interrupted in gratifying their natural curiosity, as to the extent of the injury done to the fortifications, the arsenal, and city.

The city appears to have suffered much beyond any description that had yet been given; there are but few houses which do not present some effect of the bombardment. All the Consul's houses were unfit to occupy. Five shells, one 13-inch and four 10-inch, fell into the Dey's Palace, but fortunately did not explode, or they would have shattered that princely edifice to its foundation. The Dey keeps these gratifying mementa of the 27th August piled up in his palace; and he had given rewards to all who would employ themselves in picking up the shot that fell into the city. His Highness, knowing that the Janissaries would as soon as the battle was ended, call for some reward for their services, and anticipating that a commotion must be the consequence, and he himself become a sacrifice to their inordinate demand, shipped his family (consisting of his mother, brother, and two nephews) and a considerable sum of money, in a Sardinian schooner, for Constantinople; and it proved the moment Lord Exmouth had withdrawn from the bay with his fleet, the Janissaries did demand that the city should be given up to pillage upon the plea, that the Moors had not heartily assisted in the defence, and that the Jews were no better than spies in the country.

The Dey made distributions of money to them, but finding that his liberality had only the effect of still more exciting their insatiable desires, he addressed them upon the danger there was, that the Moors would overpower them in the struggle, seeing there were no more than two thousand of them, whilst the inhabitants (Moors) consisted of upwards of thirty thousand men; he proved to them, that the proportion of those that had fallen was as thirty to one on the part of the Moors. It was not at once, however, that the Dey could persuade these furies from their purpose they importuned him to consent which he as firmly resisted, and rushing in amongst them with his breast uncovered, bid any of them who could call himself a greater friend to their cause and interest than he was, to shoot or slay him upon the spot.—This romantic act of bravery and voluntary sacrifice silenced them, and previously to the Prometheus leaving the place, they were engaged in putting the fortifications into a state of defence for immediate service, fully expecting that the American squadron would shortly visit them. The Dey has determined not to treat with them any further,—though he doubted not they would bombard the place.

The conjecture is if the Americans should proceed to acts of hostility, the Moors will endeavovr to throw off the Turkish yoke. The Dey was very actively employed; he had directed that fifteen gun boats, which were in an half-finished state when Lord Exmouth attacked, should be completed, and that the vessels which blew up and sunk in the Mole should be weighed. He had only three schooners remaining, when the Prometheus sailed they were all ready for service.

The Dey is about 45 years of age, of an active, intelligent mind, and his resolution and fearless bravery appeared to have suffered no diminution from his recent discomfiture; though it was pretty evident he entertained a higher respect for our national prowess, and the irresistable arm of our naval power, than he did for that of any other power.

The following are further particulars of the attack on the Exeter Mail Coach: On its way to London it was attacked on Sunday night at Winterslow Hut, seven miles on this side of Salisbury, in a most extraordinary manner. At the moment when the coachman pulled up to deliver his bags, one of the leaders was suddenly seized by a ferocious animal. This produced a great confusion and alarm; two passengers who were inside the mail got out, ran into the house, and locked themselves up in a room above stairs; the horses kicked and plunged violently, and it was with difficulty the coachman could prevent the carriage from being overturned. It was soon perceived by the coachman and guard, by the light of the lamps, that the animal which had seized the horse was a huge lioness. A lage mastiff dog came up and attacked her fiercely on which she quitted the horse and turned upon him. The dog fled, but was pursued and killed by the lioness, within about forty yards of the place. It appears that the beast had escaped from a caravan that was standing on the road side, belonging to the proprietors of a Managerie, on their way to Salisbury fair. An alarm being given, the keepers pursued & hunted the lioness into a granary, which served for keeping agricultural implements. About half past eight they had secured her so effectually, by barricading the place, as to prevent her escape. The lioness, it appears, attacked the horse in front, and springing at his throat, had fastened the talons of her fore feet on each side of his neck, close to the head, while the blood was seen flying, as if a vein had opened by a lancet. The ferocious animal missed the throat and the jugular vein, but the horse is so dreadfully torn, he is not expected to survive. The expression of agony in his tears and moans was piteous and effecting. A fresh horse having been procured, the mail drove on, after having been detained three quarters of an hour.

Ireland.—Intelligence from many parts of Ireland respecting the prospects of the harvest are very discouraging. In several countries great damage has been occasioned by floods; particularly in Galway, Roscommon, Westmeach, & the lower grounds of Limerick and Cork. All the low parts in the northern countries towards Belfast have experienced similar calamities. Near Athlone the roads are covered with water, so that an acre of wheat was hardly expected within 10 miles of the place. Accounts from Waterford of the 12th, are more satisfactory, and rather cheering, as the weather within the preceeding days has changed, and become propitious; and the weather at Kilkenney had; on the 10th, become very seasonable, and the people were buisily employed in saving the whole of the harvest.

The Lord Lieutenant of Ireland has consulted Ministers as to the expediency of stopping the distilleries in that country, in consequence of the unfavourable state of the harvest.

From Rome, Sept. 18.—Lord Exmouth has written the following letter to the Holy Father:

"Algiers, 31st Aug. on board the Queen Charlotte.

"Most holy father—I have the honour of informing your Holiness, for your satisfaction, of the success of the expedition against Algiers, confided to my command Christian slavery is abolished forever; and I have in consequence the satisfaction of sending back to their families 178 slaves, your subjects. I hope they will be an agreeable present to your Holiness, and that they give me a claim to the efficacy of your prayers. EXMOUTH."

On the 30th of August his Majesty the Emperor of Russia, issued the following manifesto at Moscow:

"We, Alexander, by God's grace Emperor and Autocrat of all the Russias, &c.—At the ever memorable epoch of the year 1812, when the country was delivered from the invasion of a numerous and powerful enemy, our thoughts were preferably directed to the old capital of Russia, and we resolved to repair to the midst of it, and express the feelings with which its inhabitants had inspired us. To their love for us and their country no sacrifice was too great. What they had met and suffered had penetrated our heart with deep affliction. The Almighty, however, who presides over the destinies of nations, had determined that through their sufferings Russia and Europe should be saved. The flames of Moscow were the day-dawn of the deliverance of States. From the profanation of its holy temples religion arose victorious. The genius of destruction which undermined the Kremlin was overwhelmned in its fragments; and thus Moscow, by its deeds, its fidelity, and its self-devotion, has set an example of heroism and greatness. Deeply penetrated by these circumstances, which are engraved in our memory and on our heart, even during the war we extended to it all our paternal care, in order to afford all possible support to its inhabitants struck down to the earth. These cares were the subject of repeated instructions, which we transmitted to the Governor General of Moscow.

"After the war was ended, after we had co-operated in the equilibrium of the general States of Europe, and remained only so long at St. Petersburgh as was absolutely unavoidable, we resolved to gratify the wishes of our heart, and visit our capital, honourable for its exploits as for its antiquity, to become personally acquainted with its situation and its wants, and before the eyes of the world to acknowledg its memorable services, which, hallowed by the Divine blessing, and duly estimated by Foreign Powers, call forth all our love and gratitude, as well as that of the country. In order to transmit to posterity the recollection of its exploits, we order the present Manifesto, in public token of our gratitude, to be desposited in the archives of the Senate of Moscow.

(signed) "ALEXANDER.
"Moscow, August 30, 1816."

We have been favored with the following copy of the correspondence, which took place between Lord Exmouth and Mr. Shaler, American Consul General at Algiers, subsequent to the bombardment of that place:— Com. Adv.

LORD EXMOUTH TO WM. SHALER, ESQ.
Queen Charlotte, Bay of Algiers,
2d September, 1816.

SIR,—Mr. M'Donnel having stated to me your extreme kindness and attention to him during the period of his cruel confinement by the Dey of Algiers, I feel it to be no more my inclination than my duty, as commander in chief of this fleet, to convey to you in the name of my nation, as well as individually my sincere acknowledgements for this proof of your friendly disposition.

I am fully aware of the extent of your humanity wards the officers and men of his majesty's ship Prometheus, who were so unjustifiably detained and thrown into chains by this ferocious chief; inasmuch as you not only clothed them, but furnished them with money to relieve the cravings of hunger. Such acts of human generosity ought not to be unrecorded, particularly when they were exercised at the risk of your personal safety; and it will be a gratification to me, to bring this circumstance before the view of his majesty's government in the light it merits.

I must request you will do me the favour to inform me of the expences you have been at, in alleviating the sufferings of my distressed countrymen, in order that I may repay you—and I shall at all times be ready to acknowledge to your country this act of benevolence.

I have the honor to be, etc. etc.
(Signed) EXMOUTH.

ANSWER.
Consulate General of the United States.
Algiers, 2d September, 1816.

WM. SHALER TO LORD EXMOUTH.

SIR,—I have the honor to acknowledge he receipt of the letter which your Lordship did me the honor to address me this morning.

My regard for Mr. M'Donnell was sufficient to call into activity every thing within my power to serve him and his family in the critical situation in which they were placed, and I never doubted in similar circumstances, my countrymen would have received from any British officer, situated as I was, the same relief which it was fortunately in my power to extend to the officers and boat's crew of his Britannic Majesty's ship Prometheus so unjustly detained here.

I avail myself of this occasion to assure your Lordship that in the case in question, my feelings concurred with what I considered to be my duty, and that I received with great sensibility your very flattering approbation of what I have done.

The money advanced by me for the relief of the British officers and seamen detained here, amounts to about 100 dollars, which if agreeable to your Lordship, I will settle with Mr. M'Donnell.

With very great consideration and respect, I have the honor to be your Lordships obedient servant.

PITTSBURGH.

TUESDAY. DECEMBER 3, 1816.

We are enabled to state, says the United States Gazette, that Mr. Dashkoff has not been recalled by his sovereign. Negotiations have been, for some time, carried on between the Executive of the U. States and Mr. Daschkoff, relative to the arrest of the consul general of Russia, on a charge asserted to be altogether false and malicious, and in reference to which the demands made by the minister of Russia on the United States, were made under positive and specific instructions. The result of these negotiations not being conformable to the expectations of the Court of Russia, Mr. Dashkoff, under the express terms of his instructions, is at liberty to withdraw from the United States, and thus to terminate all further diplomatick intercourse between the two nations. We understand, says the Gazette, he delays to take this step, under the ardent hope that some circumstances will occur which will remove the present difficulties, as contrary to his wishes, as they are opposed to the friendly dispositions always manifested by his court towards the United States.

The Inspectors of the New York State Prison have recommended to the government of that state, to advise congress to establish a colony on the north west coast of America or at Madison's Island, for the reception of convicts; or on the failure of this plan they suggest the expediency of a state colony for that purpose on the frontier of New York. This would be like the British Botany Bay.

There are in the New York state prison 722 convicts, and it was only calculated for 500. The lodging rooms were intended for 8, and now 15 are crowded into them.

The sale of the lots in the new town of Terre Haute, near fort Harrison, took place last week, and in one day lots were sold to the amount of upwards of twenty one thousand dollars.

Vincennes Sun of Nov. 9.

NEW PLAN OF ROBBING!

We are informed, that a few days since a man of genteel appearance applied to a store-keeper in Market-street for permission to leave his trunk in the store during the night, representing that it contained dry goods of value, but that the waggon which was to take it to the westward would not be ready to receive it till the next day, when he would send for it. The store-keeper very readily consented, and the trunk was accordingly deposited in his store. During the night a neighbor opposite observed a light in the store; which being an unusual thing, he communicated the circumstance to the owner early in the morning. Suspicions being thus excited, officers were immediately sent for, and after a strict search throughout the store, no thief could be discovered, but several articles of valuable merchandize were missing. At length it was deemed expedient to examine the stranger's trunk; when lo! the gentleman was found profoundly involved in the stolen goods!—It is presumed he had his accomplices out of doors, who were to have called in the morning and carried him and his booty off in triumph.

☞ Since writing the above, we learn, that two men called at the store next morning, with an order for the trunk, and were immediately apprehended.

LAW INTELLIGENCE.

An important decision has taken place during the last session of the Hustings court for the City of Richmond, and which probably never was tried before in Virginia—The case was this:—A gentleman went before the Grand Jury to lodge information against several persons for a violation of the law concerning usury. The Grand Jury refused to hear the complaint doubting their right to take cognizance of the subject. Application was then made to the court for instruction, and the court being of opinion, that the Grand Jury had cognizance, but as all the gentlemen of the bar then present except the prosecuting attorney, differed in opinion with the court, the court was adjourned to the succeeding day—when it came on agreeable to adjournment, but after a short, but lucid argument of counsel, the whole of the bar (with the exception of one) retracted and gave it as their opinion, that the Grand Jury had cognizance and the court instructed them accordingly.

The correspondence, which passed between Lord Exmouth and William Shaler, Esq. Consul General at Algiers, does honour to both parties The conduct of Mr. Shaler was dictated by that humanity which has hitherto in every instance marked the conduct of American officers. The acknowledgement of it by Lord Exmouth, reflects great credit on the feelings of his Lordship and the spirit of justice which actuated him. We are happy to remark this good understanding and unprejudiced regard exercised between the officers of England and America, and we trust they may long continue to view in acts of generosity and magnanimity wtih each other. Whether in a day of peace or that of war, hostility of governments should never operate to prevent those acts of humanity which always shed lustre on those who confer them.—National Advocate.

According to very late advices the Russian army amounts to 1,100 000 men—800 000 uniforms were lately ordered from England; and, from Alexander's increased ambition, &c some active employment for the soldiers was expected by or before next spring. We have this from a very respectable source.—N. Y. Columbian.

Soldiers of Fortune.—We read in some papers, that a regiment of Americans is formed at Port au Prince, under Col. G D Young, late of the U S army, to make part of an expedition to aid the revolutionists in Mexico. Salem Gaz.

A person of this city, has been pleased to hand us a copy of the following letter, which we hasten to publish, not in order to establish the reputation of the respectable veteran to which it is directed, for it already reposes on the basis of honor and probity, but to give an idea of the generosity of an old soldier who tried every exertion to save the nephew of a man who had never ceased to persecute him.

Orleans Courier

To James Wilkinson. Esq. late Major General in the Army of the United States.

I most sincerely thank you General for the exertions you made, had I been a Dutchman instead of an Hibernian, they would have saved me. I did not expect you to come forward, in the manner you did, the way my connexions treated you would have deterred almost any other.—Those in this city who owe their all to the generosity of Dan. Clark, have refused to even put their names to a petition to save his nephew from an ignominious death, but retrospect does not answer my situation. I thank you, and wish every happiness may be yours General.

RICHARD SMYTH.

August 8th 1816.

From the National Intelligencer, Nov. 19.

OUR RELATIONS WITH RUSSIA.

Mr Weir, Consul of the United States at Riga, arrived at the seat of government on Sunday last, with despatches from Mr. Harris, Charge des Affaires of the United States at the Court of Russia.

Mr. W. we understand, left St. Petersburgh about the middle of September; at which time the Emperor had left St. Petersburgh for Warsaw, on a journey to make some arrangements respecting the internal affairs of his empire.

Of the contents of Mr. Harris's despatches, we do not pretend to any precise knowledge. It is understood geneally, however, that the arrest and confinement of Mr. Kosloff, the Russian Consul General, at Philadelphia, by a warrant from a Magistrate of that city, for an imputed criminal offence, had under the influence of Mr. Dashcoff's representations, created some dissatisfaction in the imperial Government; which manifested itself in the tempory prohibition of Mr. Harris from attending the Russian court, and in the orders which, it is already understood, have terminated Mr. Daschoff's mission in this country. These steps were taken, we learn, with evident reluctance on the part of the Emperor, and under an impression that it had been in the power of this government to prevent the arrest—in omitting to do which, there had been a want of that respect justly due to his character and station. The measures which he adopted were intended to evince his sensibility to an imagined wrong, and to give an opportunity, in case of ascertained neglect on our part, for due reparation to be made for it: or for the explanations which the case admitted, if it should appear, as the fact was, that there had been none such.

It is understood that, as soon as our government became acquainted with the effect which had been produced at St. Petersburgh by the representations of Mr. Daschkoff, Mr. Coles, (the late Secretary of the President) was sent in the Prometheus, a public ship, with dispatches to Mr. Harris, embracing such a view of the whole transaction, as it actually occurred, and with such unequivocal assurances of the friendly disposition of our government towards Russia, as there was every reason to believe would be entirely satisfactory.

It is with pleasure we now state, that from the temper manifested, at the time Mr. Weir left St. Petersburgh, by the Imperial Government towards the United States, there is every reason to believe that this affair will be amicably adjusted, and that without any long delay.

Gen. Bernard, late a Lieut. General in the French army, is now in this city, and we understand has accepted an appointment in the Engineer Department of our army. We remember the testimonials of his distinguished merit, which were before Congress during the session. In Europe, Gen. B. is acknowledged to be one of the most distinguished military Engineers of the age, a man of profound learning in most branches of natural philosophy, possessing great firmness of mind and simplicity of manners. In all the late campaigns under Napoleon, he was attached to the military cabinet of the Emperor.—Gen. Bernard is the first foreign officer who has admitted into the military service of the United States. He declined, it has been stated, very flattering overtures from some of the European sovereigns, and tendered his services to our Government, and Congress appreciating the value of his talents to our military youth, passed a special act for his admission.

A second Telemachus.—It is said that the son of Mungo Park, the traveller, who resides in the neighborhood of Edinbugh, a fine youth of about 14 years of age, is preparing to go abroard in search of his father, whom he still believes to be alive.

London Paper.

Augusta, (Geo.) Nov. 7.

On Tuesday last a deputation of eight friendly Indians, from the Creeks, or Muscopuees, led by Major M'Intosh, arrived here. They are on their way to the City of Washington, and on Wednesday continued their journey for that place—The deputation we understand, is composed of the first chiefs and warriors of the nation, who, through the late war, uniformily adhered to the American cause, and were valuable auxillaries to the forces under Major Gen. Jackson, in compelling the hostile Indians to sue for peace upon our own terms. Their orderly, and general good conduct, and as it has been represented to us, their correct deportment, will, it is hoped, secure them a friendly and hospitable reception, in such parts of our country as they may pass through, in their rout to the seat of government—They are conducted, we understand, by Maj. Daniel Hughes, the U. States Factor at Fort Hawkins, and will go on by way of Salisbury, Halifax. C. House, &c. being what is called the middle road from this place to Washington.

New York, Nov. 18.

Robbery again.—Almost every day we have to record instances of the most attrocious robberies and house breaking committed in the heart of the city. Another case occurred ou Saturday night not less daring than any we have heard of. A watchman going his rounds, about 2 o'clock in passing the Auction store of Mr Wm S Wick, 120 Water street near the Tontine Coffee house, hearing a noise and seeing a light within which excited his suspicions, cautiously waited for two of his companions to come the round, when all three rushed into the store and discovered two men nearly loaded down with valuable goods, and continuing their search for more. Two of the watchmen immediately seized one of the villains, a whiteman, who had filled his pockets with gold and silver watches, jewellry, &c. The other villain, a lusty black fellow, having extinguished the light, seized a sword with which he attempted to defend himself, but finding it unavailing, made for the back window through which he forced a passage into the yard, and from thence over two fences about 15 or 18 feet high, into an adjoining yard, but was followed with equal agility by the third watchman to this place and taken in attempting to force his passage thro the back door of a house. It appears that they entered the front door of the store by forcing a very strong lock with a crowbar; and they must have been in the store a considerable time before they were detected, as all the locks of the desks and drawers were broken and deliberate search made throughout the store for the most valuable articles. It is feared that they may have accomplices who had made off with some booty before they were discovered, Much credit is due to these watchmen on this occasion for their exertions in securing the villains.

Six Cents Reward.

RANAWAY from the subscriber, on the 10th day of September last, an indented apprentice to the carpenter business, named JAMES MURRAY, between 18 and 19 years of age, about 5 feet 6 or 7 inches high, fair complexion and light hair, has a small defect on one of his legs, which may be perceived when he walks. The above lad is remarkably attached to whiskey and laughter, and will never tell the truth when a lie will answer the same purpose. Cursing and swearing appear to be his mother tongue, as he excels most lads of his age in those polite acquirements.

Whoever delivers said runaway to the subscriber, or secures him in Pittsburgh jail, shall receive the above reward in paper money, but must not expect thanks, as no favor will be conferred on his master RICHARD GEARY.

DOCTOR CHISHOLM'S
Anti-Bilious Pills,

Of a quality superior to any thing of the kind ever offered as a GENERAL MEDICINE, in this Country.

NOW prepared from a recipe of the celebrated Dr. Chisholm, who, from a long residence in the West-India Islands, has been enabled to favor the world with the most complete history, and most approved methods of curing all the BILIOUS DISEASES of those warm climates.

This extraordinary Medicine, which now for the first time is finding its way into general practice, has properties in the highest degree superior to the mercurial nostrums so frequently recommended by the name of Anti-Bilious Pills. The extraordinary powers of this medicine as a solvent and evacuent of Bile, is without example; never producing debility or injuring the health, in the smallest degree, of the most delicate child or weakly female:

The BILIOUS HEAD-ACHE, so much complained of in this country, and in the neighbourhood of rivers, is often removed by a single dose, which, to a strong man, is only five pills, and to a weakly woman, three. The same dose will generally remove the most excruciating pains of the cholic, like a charm, by abusing the bile to pass downwards in the course of an hour or two.

Two or three Pills taken an hour before dinner, and repeated every third day, will effectually remove those diseases arising from flatulency and indigestion, and by persevering in the use of them for a considerable time, the appetite will be improved, and strength and vigor will return.

Two Pills taken at bed time, with a cup of penny-royal tea, and repeated every second night, will effectually remove Rheumatic pains wherever seated.

A single Pill, taken every fourth hour with a cup of flaxseed tea, will cure Pleurisy, promote expectoration, and relieve coughs and colds.

In CONSUMPTIVE CASES and DISEASES OF THE LIVER, no medicine ever yet discovered, has been known to perform such cures. Two Pills taken every third morning, will be found sufficient, unless costiveness prevails; in which case the dose may be increased according to the strength or constituton.

The Dysentery, Croup, and Summer Complaint on children, are soon relieved by a few doses. A single Pill to a child of 6 years old, and the dose increased according to their strength and age.

In Asthmatic or Phthisical cases, where the laborious breathing & great oppression, with faintings, are fast sinking the patient to the brink of the grave, a few Pills, taking one every hour, with fennel or pepper-mint tea, will often enable the patient to walk about in a few hours.
